TWO GOOD MEN

Mike Conner and Tom Bailey will run off the race for Governor. Both of these gentlemen are good men in every respect. No word regarding the personal honor and integrity or any allusion to ANY "affair" has ever been said in the darkest spot by the least responsible person.

The one great and preeminent advantage that Conner has over Bailey is that Conner has had successful experience in the office he seeks during a period which is likely to be mild contrasted with the heart aches and the head aches of the period of reconstruction that will surely come during the next administration.

In the light of events, we are SURE to have a good man for governor. Let's have a good EXPERIENCED man.

The Army Saves 100

We are extravagant people in peace times, but when our country is at war, American people are economical and conservative. They are anxious to see that their fighting forces have the best of everything necessary to maintain and carry on our protective measures.

A small item in this American plan of Victory is the care of that which we already have, and the proper disposal of that which we cannot use. For the purpose of conservation, reclamation and salvage activities have been established throughout the Army as well as the industrial world. Reclamation consists of the repair and renovation for reuse in the military service of unserviceable articles. Salvage is the source of disposition of articles which have become unserviceable for Army use.

The salvage and reclamation activities carried on by the Army at Camp McCain are directed by 1st Lt. Arthur C. Stern, Jr., under the supervision of Lt. Col. Arthur M. McCoy, Director of Supply.

Reclamation activities have been organized and established as directed by the War Department so as to render twenty-four hour service in connection with the repair of unserviceable property at Camp McCain. This does not mean that troops wait twenty-four hours for their unserviceable property to be replaced.

Replacement for these articles is received at the time they are turned into the Classification Warehouse. Unserviceable property is sent to reclamation shop, repaired, and returned to the stock room within twenty-four hours.

The reclamation plant at Camp McCain consists of the following:

- a. Clothing and Textile repair shop;
- b. Canvas and Webbing repair shop;
- c. Shoe and Leather Goods repair shop;
- d. Typewriter repair shop;
- e. Tent repair shop;
- f. Metal and Wood repair shop.

The various repair shops are established with key personnel, such as foreman experienced in the line of work carried on in the shop. It is their duty to train employees and supervise activities of the shop. Reclamation activities have been carried on to such a high degree of efficiency that only a small percentage of the articles turned in have had to be salvaged.

Here are a few facts on the salvage activities at Camp McCain. The Salvage Officer has worn out plans for the collection of salvage material. Ed.

And we'll miss him every day.

Yes—He knows we will remember. And he smiles with love and pride. When to Heaven comes our whisper: Thank you, Son—For US you died.

Oh! His wings are bright and shining. And no clouds are in the skies. As he hears the Song of Angels And God's Beauty fills his eyes.

Earl E. Litten Gets His "Wings"

Earl E. Litten, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Litten of 923 Third Street, Grenada, Miss., has successfully completed the Army Air Forces Advanced Flying School training at Williams Field.

Chandler, Arizona. The pilot has been commissioned 2nd Lieutenant in the Army Air Corps.

Airman "Big Chick" Lockett of Keesler Field spent a furlough with his family recently.

Education bulletins have been sent to all mess officers on the proper procedure for the saving of greases, garbage, bones and meat trimmings, contained of all types, and all materials that can be salvaged. These articles are turned in to the Salvage Officer for disposition. Great quantities of trap grease, cooking grease, raw meat and bones, garbage, are collected and sold each month at a net saving to the Government, plus a source of supply for the war industry such as a supply of glycerine. In addition to the above articles, all types of food containers, such as glass jars, egg crates, vegetable crates and baskets, are also collected by the Salvage Officer and sold to dealers for re-use.

Tin cans, scrap metal of all kinds, broken glass, scrap rubber, cotton and woolen rags, waste paper and cardboard, burlap bags, scrap lumber and miscellaneous worn-out articles are all collected from organizations in and around Camp McCain and are sold as salvage material.

The empty jars, paper cartons, baskets, tin cans, and scrap rubber, which you save are of the greatest importance, for they, together with the material saved by your neighbors, and the enormous amounts salvaged by the Army itself, produce enough metal and rubber to help build new war equipment which is so essential to our fighting forces and to Victory!

Captain C. C. Andrews Tells Lighter Side

Captain Charles C. Andrews, of Grenada, Miss., has recently returned from ten months service in the South Pacific. He is now assigned to the Army Air Base at Salt Lake City, having reported from his last station somewhere in New Guinea.

Like many of his fellow pilots, Capt. Andrews' experiences have been wide and varied—usually exciting and always dangerous. However, he told of one experience on the light side that bears retelling.

While stationed in Australia, his heavy bombardment group was being escorted by an RAF group flying Spitfires. One of the RAF boys kept urging the Captain to take him along on a mission so he could see for himself just what the "big boys" were doing. So on a day when their mission promised to be particularly interesting, the RAF pilot was invited to join the party. He was a red-head nicknamed "Blaney"—it seems that in Australia red-heads are all called Blaney rather than Red.

About an hour after leaving their base, Capt. Andrews received a frantic call from one of the waist gunners reporting the discovery of a large snake and requesting help to get rid of it. It so happened that Blaney was standing at the Captain's elbow at that time, so he asked him to go to the aid of the gunner. Blaney was sure that his leg was being pulled, but he willingly volunteered.

As it turned out, it wasn't a leg-pulling, for sure enough, when Blaney arrived at the scene of action the snake (a big one about eight feet long) was firmly wrapped around a pipe, and the tall gunner, with the help of one of the waist gunners, was pulling mightily on the snake's tail trying to dislodge the unwelcome passenger. Blaney sized up the situation at a glance and for the lack of a better weapon he removed one of his size 12 flying boots and, bringing Mr. Snake in his sight gave him a quick burst over the head for a confirmed victory.

After dispatching the snake, Blaney returned to the flight deck to report to Captain Andrews. Looking just a little bewildered, he said, "You know, Captain, I've been wanting to ride one of these blooming freight trains for a long time because everyone says they have everything, but Blaney (they didn't tell me you had a bloody zoo a-

87th Infantry Division To Take Part In Mule Race

It'll be a team of riding, roping soldier veterans, that takes the field for the 87th Infantry Division in the Annual Greenwood mule race Thursday, August 5—and it'll take an equally experienced team to defeat them.

The friendly rivalry between the Division and the Greenwood mule race, which have also entered a team, has been brewing for some time, and the mule races provide a natural outlet for the pent up spirit of the boys.

Spectators at the races will see a team riding for the 87th with experience all the way from Cavalry school and the Horse Cavalry to genuine "Western Cowboys." 1st Sergeant Kenneth P. Vanderlark is a graduate of the Cavalry school, Fort Riley, Kansas. Sergeant Garvin L. Jones boasts of seventeen years in the horse cavalry and a veteran breaker of steeds at Fort Meade, South Dakota.

Riding mules may not be anything like riding a tank, but its near enough to it so that Cpl. William White will have little trouble with his new assignment. Corporal White is a former tank driver at Fort Benning, Georgia. The honor of upholding the old west falls to Cpl. Clarence E. Elsey, an Oklahoma cowboy.

The army mule may be a new piece of equipment for the men of the "Acorn Division," but a good kick in the right place and the gentle of a "GT" shoe can be a mean persuader.

A special box at legion field, site of the mule races, has been set aside for Major General P. W. Clarkson, Division Commander, and Brig. General Russell G. Barkalow, Division Artillery commander.

Travis Martindale Finishes Intensive Course

Travis J. Martindale, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Martindale, of West Gowan St., Grenada, Miss., has graduated from an intensive course in airplane mechanics and is now prepared to blast the Axis as one of America's "commandos in coveralls." Shepard Field, near Wichita Falls, Texas, is one of the many schools of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command which trains the specialist technicians to maintain our mighty air armadas. He is now qualified to play a vital role in the Army Air Forces around crew teams that "Keep 'Em Flying."

Before entering the school, he was trained at one of the basic training centers of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command and learned to fight the Axis with other things besides the tools of his trade.

Aviation Cadet Norman K. Nall has reported to Dorr Field, Arcadia, Fla. where he will receive one phase of his pilot training leading to receiving his Wings. Aviation Cadet Nall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Nall of Grenada.

Prior to the war, Captain Andrews was practicing law at Grenada, Miss., having attended the University of Mississippi where he obtained his L. L. B. Before that he attended the University of Texas and Harvard University.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Honeycutt, of Grenada.

A Posthumous Award

The late Robert P. Campbell, U. S. Naval Air Corps, (better known as Bobby to his many friends), son of J. V. Campbell, 6 Adams Street, Grenada, Mississippi, has been awarded posthumously his wings of Gold and a 2nd Lieutenant's Commission in the U. S. Naval Air Corps.

LT. Campbell lost his life while on his last training flight as a result of a tail-air crash over the Gulf of Mexico, out from his base at Pensacola, Florida, on May 23, 1943. He and eight other airmen were flying on the Navy's big PBX flying boats when struck by a smaller plane with two aboard and all were lost. The bodies of Lt. Campbell and seven others were never recovered.

LT. Campbell would have been 20 years old December 9 next. He was a member of the Baptist Church of Grenada, an Eagle Scout, and recipient of the Bronze Palm, being the 1st Scout in Cairo, Ill., to receive this award. He was a Mississippian by birth, going from Jackson to Cairo with his parents in early life and living there until he finished high school when he returned to Grenada with his father and mother. He then entered the University of Mississippi but after a semester, resigned and entered the U. S. Naval Air Corps. He served his pre-flight training at the University of Georgia, his preliminary flight at Millington, Tennessee, and his advanced training at Pensacola, Florida, with a perfect record from the beginning to the end.

To his memory and all fallen heroes of the Air Forces, J. S. Lovett, Brewton, Alabama, offers this tribute and gratitude:

Oh! His wings were bright and shining. As he soared into the skies—On his lips the song of Freedom And God's beauty in his eyes.

Brave and loyal in the Service Of the Flag he bore on high—He gave his life to keep it flying And such Heroes never die.

So—Another name is given—On the Shield of Freedom's Light; There to live and shine forever, Showing us the Truth and Right.

Time may dim our grief and sorrow, But our love for him will stay Bright thru all the years before us.

Me and Mike.
Poor Frank.
Poor Lester.

Now since the Know Murphree extra has had a wreck, all passengers are invited to get aboard the Conner Conquering Special.

Now since the handle of that broom that was sweeping Lester into the governor's chair broke, all of Lester's followers are invited to get on the band wagon.

The faces of Bilbo and Doxy must be red today. They supported the tail-end, Lester, Pearl River county and Marshall county went for Conner, not Lester.

Talking about smart folks deserting the sunk ship, watch Dennis' folks flock to the winner.

Bilbo's kiss of death this time was implanted on the classic brow of my friend (and I DO like him), Lester.

Talking about the hottest race in the State, watch Best Four.

I believe Mrs. Willis was the most modest winner, considering the magnitude of her victory, at all.

Conner goes into the run-off with 40 percent of the votes; Bailey with 25 percent. They have 35 percent to divide. To win, Conner must pick up about 20,000 votes; Bailey, to win must pick up about 54,000. This is based on the latest, but incomplete returns. I can not help but admire the spirit of the Bailey men who persist in entering a fight leading to almost certain defeat. The old never give up spirit.

The latest returns show:
Conner 30,310
Bailey 53,503
Murphree 50,236
Franklin 25,508

Sgt. Paul Pittman is reported officially as killed in Sicily. His bereaved widow who lives in Grenada will furnish us with some details next week.

A special venire has been summoned to form a jury to try Mrs. Bohrer, charged with husband murder Saturday morning. The case will probably go into next week. Court was organized Wednesday morning, following a week's recess, and comparatively minor cases have consumed the time of the court up to Thursday noon. Two petit juries are being used.

J. P. Coleman, the district attorney, was reelected by a large majority over his opponent, Jack Carlisle 5,009 to 14,625.

Things are not going to be very cool in Beat 3 the next 3 weeks.

It is Senator-elect James Moore now

If a miracle should happen, we will still have a good governor.

The face of my friend, Paul Johnson, must be a little redder than usual for two reasons: his man Murphree did not get into the run-off, and Forest County went for its native son, Conner, who received more than the three others combined.

His friends will be glad to know that Lt. Gus Gerard of the Paratroopers has cabled his mother that he was safe. It is generally believed, if not definitely known that Gus participated in the invasion of Sicily.

The veteran Secretary of State, Walker Wood is definitely elected by a handsome majority.

The incumbent, Hon. T. J. Lowe overwhelped Abe Linker, his predecessor who sought to be his successor, in the race.

I think it is wonderful that these Bailey men, facing certain defeat in the run-off, still hold up their chins and talk of beating Mike Conner. Yet, there is something pathetic about their adherence to a lost cause. It's the old Confederate spirit that fights on in the face of certain disaster.

Aint they sweet.

What's happened to the cold storage plant?

Grenada has not had TWO fires at the SAME time this week.

Oh, me.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

You may not be able to replace worn or broken household equipment. This is war. Government priorities come first. So take care of what you have, as well as you possibly can. This column by the housewife's friend tells you how.

FLYING INSECTS

Question: In our bungalow we are bothered with flying insects that come down the chimney when the fire is out. To stop this we plan to put a piece of window screening over the top of the chimney. Would this interfere with the draft of a wood fire?

Answer: Window screening laid flat on the chimney would be quickly clogged with ashes. Instead of laying the screening flat, use it to make a box the size of the flue, to rise at least 12 inches above the chimney top. The opposite side should be left open, with long pieces that will extend down into the flue and hold the box in place. Wind blowing across the box will prevent ashes from clinging.

Waxing Linoleum

Question: What could I use on my linoleum to make it glossy? There is no sign of wear as yet, but it becomes very dull after cleaning. I'm tired of using wax which isn't lasting.

Answer: It should not be necessary to use wax as often as you apparently are doing. You can get special waxes, and tools with which to apply them for your own variety of directions, you can reduce greatly the labor of cleaning and waxing. A light rubbing up every day or two should be enough. Spots can be taken off with a damp cloth. Linoleum manufacturers do not advise varnishing or lacquering.

Hot-Water Heating System
Question: You have recommended leaving the water in a hot-water heating system the year 'round, only adding water when necessary. Doesn't the water become "dead" and circulate slower and give off less heat?

Answer: What you call "dead" water is preferred in a heating system, because such water causes less corrosion in the boiler, pipes and radiators than does fresh water. Fresh water contains air, which is corrosive to iron and steel, but when fresh water is reheated several times the air is driven off. The heating efficiency of the system is not affected by such water.

Moisture Spots

Question: Since the heavy summer rains, small cracks in our cement basement floor show spots of moisture. These cracks are near the corners of the walls and floor. The brick of the walls is crumbling. How should I make repairs?

Answer: You can check the crumbling of the brick by coating it with a cement base paint, the kind that comes in powder form, to be mixed with water. For the small floor cracks, begin by wire-brushing the area, wet it with clear water and then give it a coat of Portland cement mixed with water to the consistency of thick paint.

Garage Floor

Question: The garage attached to my house has a floor of crushed rock screenings. This is being tracked into the house continuously. What can be done to this floor?

Answer: If the screenings are very fine, pulverized calcium chloride sprinkled over the floor will settle the dust; but if the aggregate is larger, an asphalt binder can be used. Your local road commissioner is familiar with both materials and can advise you where they can be obtained. The asphalt binder may be difficult to procure at present.

Yellowed Refrigerator

Question: My electric refrigerator has a yellow cast to it, was perfectly white when I bought the unit. How can I bring it back to the original whiteness?

Answer: It may not be possible to restore the box to its original whiteness, but you might try the following: Wash the enamel with mild soap and warm water, then rinse with a solution of Javelle water, about three tablespoonfuls in a quart of water, and wipe dry. If the above does not help, have your local refrigerator service man spray a new lacquer finish on the box.

Doing Over Armchair

Question: The wood of an armchair is scratched badly. We want to stain and varnish the chair, but should prefer a dull varnish to the shiny kind. Can we get this?

Answer: Certainly; you can get a semi-gloss or dull varnish that should be just what you want. The present finish first should be rubbed down with very fine sandpaper, then wiped with turpentine; and, for a really good job, the first coat of varnish also should be rubbed down.

Hen Has Incubator

Among the interesting birds on Guadalcanal is the brush fowl, a dark-colored bird about the size of a bantam hen. Instead of setting on her eggs, this mother bird covers them with decaying vegetation. The heat generated by the action of decomposition keeps the eggs at hatching temperature.

The incubation period lasts around 50 days—longer than for any other land bird. As a result, the young have the power of flight as soon as they are hatched.

BEAT THE HEAT

Scorch, relieve heat, and help prevent it with Mennen's Heat Powder. Sprinkle this cooling, astringent medicated powder well over heat irritated skin. Costs little. Big savings in larger sizes. All the family will like Mennen's.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Recapped tires will render satisfactory service—if the tire carcass is in good condition, good workmanship is exercised, inflation rules are observed and speed is kept to 35 mph. Have your tires recapped at a reliable shop.

Scientists have developed the fact that when a car is driven at 50 mph there is a centrifugal force of two tons trying to pull the tires apart.

That our standard of living is affected in many ways by the shortage of rubber will be appreciated when it is known that normally about 50,000 items were made with rubber.

One Bit of Tough Detail That Smith Didn't Mind

Two men worked side by side in a War Production board office. They never spoke, but each watched the other. One man left work daily at four o'clock. The other toiled on till six or later.

Some months passed. Then the harder-working of the two approached the other.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but do you mind telling me how you can clean up your work every day at four o'clock?"

"Not at all," said the other man. "When I come to a tough piece of detail, I mark it, 'Refer to Mr. Smith.' I figure that, in a department as large as this, there is sure to be a Mr. Smith. And I must be right; those papers never come back."

The harder worker started to remove his coat.

"Brother," he said, "prepare for action. I'm Mr. Smith."

If you know a Navy man, don't ever call him a "gob"—sailors consider the name an insult. You can get on the right side of him though if you offer him a Camel—or better yet, send him a carton. Camels are the favorite cigarette with men in the Navy (Army, Marines, Coast Guard, too, for that matter) based on actual sales records from the service men's stores. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

AROUND THE HOUSE

When melting chocolate, use a small round-bottomed bowl and melt over hot water. Bowl may be set in the top of teakettle or double boiler.

Water or food left in an aluminum pressure cooker pits the surface and makes it dark and rough.

Never pour water on burning fat; it spreads blaze. Extinguish blaze with flour.

Keep linens white by packing them in an old pillow case which has been soaked in bluing until it is a deep indigo.

Rub up the nickel faucets with cleansing tissues every day. Such rubbing up will lighten the weekly cleanings.

Red and yellow paints mixed together give you orange; red and blue, purple; yellow and blue, green. White paint added to any of these colors will lighten them.

Gather clover blossoms this summer, dry them, and scatter about the linen closet to impart a delicate fragrance.

Try adding a few drops of lemon juice to rice the next time you cook it. It makes the rice beautifully white and keeps the grains whole.

'When Will War End?' Nation's No. 1 Question

Ruhr Valley Bombings Seen as Concrete Evidence of Germany's Inevitable Defeat; Aviation Expert Revises Estimate.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building
Washington, D. C.

Today Washington, deep as it is in the problems of the moment—on the home front and along the seething globe-scattered sectors where our men are fighting—is more deeply conscious of the future than ever before in history. And that feeling is clearly reflected in every town, city and cross-roads in the country.

The letters I receive express this interest in tomorrow, the many polls on post-war problems and the plans to solve them echo that interest, the comment of leaders, the organization of clubs and forums and committees to discuss them, add up to the largest and healthiest curiosity that the nation has ever seen. The political parties recognize this and the Republicans are busy working on a constructive foreign-policy plank for their 1944 platform to meet the administration's post-war plans.

As the people look toward tomorrow, the first thing they ask is: "When will the war end?" You can't get an official prognostication on that subject and, personally, I would hesitate even to make a guess. But this week, there came to my notice two remarks, one from the German propaganda minister and one from the president of an American aviation corporation which I want to place figuratively in parallel columns—not only side by side with each other but in balance with previous remarks of both men.

Goebbels' Viewpoint

Some time ago, Herr Goebbels spoke of "the Ruhr," that little industrial area including the historic center of Germany's munitions manufacture, the Krupp works of Essen.

Goebbels was on record as saying that the destiny of the Ruhr was the destiny of Germany itself. And then only a few days ago, a broadcaster from Berlin admitted that the "havoc" wrought by the Allied bombers in that area was "incalculable."

The other gentleman whom I wish to quote is R. S. Damon, president of the Republic Aviation Corporation, which builds those famous P-47 "Thunderbolts," the fighters which have done such an efficient job of protecting our bombers over Europe.

Some time ago Damon predicted that Germany would be knocked out of the war by 1944. But Mr. Damon has now revised that estimate. He says:

"Unpreparedness may have cost us many early rounds but now it appears possible that Germany will have been removed from the lists by the end of 1943. I believe this to be true because no nation, not even Hitler's Germany, can suffer the rate of attrition which is now being inflicted on the Nazis and survive for long. The aerial combat box scores are now so definitely in our favor and our constantly increasing production of fine aircraft and well-trained airmen precludes any possibility of those scores being reduced unless by a miracle, and the days of Hitler's miracles have ceased to be. Our air forces are now systematically and liberally pulverizing the industrial centers of Germany and without her industries, Germany cannot fight or even exist."

Mind you, I do not underwrite this prophecy but I think it is worth recording because both men have revised their views in the direction of a shorter war—Goebbels would never have dwelt on the importance of the Ruhr in the beginning if he knew he would have to admit the degree of its destruction—Damon, after similar consideration, reduces the time he believes it will take to knock Germany out.

Aviation's Growth

In both cases, we have a tribute to the tremendous growth of American combatant airpower. Now let us look at the parallel growth in non-combatant airpower. We turn to no less an authority than the Office of War Information:

"By 1945, it is expected that transport planes in the 100,000-120,000-pound class will be flying in quantity, carrying loads of 15 tons at a speed of 250 miles per hour over distances such as from New York to Chicago.

"By 1946, it is expected that 70 per cent of the passenger travel, now relying on railroad pullmans, will go by air—about 20,000,000 passengers a year.

"Exclusive of certain military air-dromes, there will be about 865 major airports in the United States by the end of this year, all with paved runways of 3,500 feet or more, capable of handling the largest planes, where fewer than 100 existed in 1940. In addition to these, there are well over 2,000 smaller fields.

"To operate these planes and airports after the war, there will be the 3,000,000 air-minded and trained pilots, navigators, radiomen, airport engineers, traffic controllers and others who will be in the air forces by the end of this year."

The OWI predicts post-war flights of 11 hours from Washington to Paris and London; 7 hours from Washington to Mexico City; 16 from Washington to Moscow; 18 from Washington to Cairo or Buenos Aires and 22 hours from Washington to Tokyo (if Tokyo is still on the map).

I quote these statements to show how tremendously the world we are living in today differs from the world we lived in before Pearl Harbor—a change which must affect all phases of life tomorrow. Already, as far as the military go, the earth has shrunk from the comparative size of an orange to the size of a marble. When the war is over and we have had time to adapt what we have learned in the field of aviation to peaceful transportation, it will shrink to the size of a pea. When we shift our war effort to peace-time production, it will shrink still further.

Utopian Plans

Aviation is only one phase of the achievement—the war has forced upon us; there are great plans bursting to become realities, many that seem so utopian that the cynics scoff—a world organization to enforce peace and achieve freedom from fear; world co-operation which will increase production and facilitate distribution to the point where there will be at least an approximation of freedom from want—to tick off only two of the four freedoms for which we are supposed to be fighting.

Discouraged at our inability to realize within our own vast borders all of the dreams of our founding fathers, we cannot believe that the high aims for unity embracing the whole world can be anything but pure fantasy. But if we can shrink the globe from orange to marble, a feat that would have been considered utterly incredible to our own grandfathers, must we say that we cannot build a world unity and a world understanding greater than anything heretofore conceived?

It took a dreamer to put the first wings on man—the laboratory and the machine shop did the rest. With the widespread will to a better future providing the psychological inspiration, who knows but that the energy which has made the prosecution of global war possible can be transmuted into a framework upon which global peace can be built?

It's a smaller globe, after all.

As we begin to think in global terms, we have to adjust our views of geography. For instance, suppose someone should tell you that the important port of Siberia, for which the Japs yearn but do not dare attack, the port of Vladivostok, were a hundred and fifty miles south of the poetic city of Venice with its streets of water? Of course, you would know better but could you say how much better?

Or if someone said flatly to you: "You can't tell me what South American countries a line running straight south from Savannah, Ga., would pass through," you would feel you could at least guess and get one right.

No. No. Naples is 150 miles north of Vladivostok.

You can't name any South American country south of Savannah, Ga., because the western coastline of South America is east of such a point. Guess again.

Who's News This Week

By Delos Wheeler Lovelace

Consolidated Features.—WNU Release.

NEW YORK.—A quickie poll, maybe all wrong, indicates that radio cowboys scribble most of this nation's regional ballads. Of course, they get help from A Ballader of Note, Chicago hillbillies and any Bronx troubadour able to tear a minor chord from a glittering guitar and sing through the nose at the same time.

In Mexico such compositions are written by artists of more stature. Some have been done, to wide and lengthy applause, by that country's ambassador to Washington.

The Mexicans call them corridos. Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera concedes, however, that they are usually about kidnappings, floods, untimely deaths and blighted love. And what else do the static cow-pokes wait about?

Not that Castillo Najera wails. A former Honorary President of the Association of Mexican artists, he is highfalutin'. "My idea has been more or less to stylize the corrido," is the way this diplomat explains the situation.

If the ambassador hasn't stylized lately the omission is understandable. He has had lend-lease to ferry over the Rio Grande del Norte and a slather of other interests. He is a surgeon, a public health expert and an army officer who survived heavy shooting to rise from major to major general. And he is a widely saluted prose writer, a Latinist and an expert in the Chinese language. (Maybe he is Mexico's answer to John Kieran.)

The ambassador picked up Chinese on his first diplomatic job 20 years ago. Later he served in France, Sweden, Belgium and fallen Austria.

Rewards he has received from his government and others include enough decorations to cover him from chin to brislet.

The Najera family hails from ancient Durango and the ambassador grew up there with nine brothers and sisters. A favorite uncle, a doctor, influenced him to study medicine.

He is a big man now, with a shock of white hair, who climbs any old way into clothes that cost so much they deserve a valet's tender care. For the sake of his sensitive in-laws he smokes a specially treated tobacco, and uses a cigarette holder longer than any you'll see at the White House. For the sake of his figure he is still grim about setting-up exercises. He doesn't rise for these until eight o'clock in the morning; but, on the other hand, he doesn't sit down to dinner until after eight in the evening.

Dinner is apt to be an event. He is a famed host, conversationalist and connoisseur of beer as well as a pretty good cook. After dinner he likes slam-bang bridge.

Madame Ambassador is a painter in her own right, but busy now as president of the Latin-American division of the Red Cross in Washington. There are four children. One son is interned; one is studying music, and the other one is a military cadet. Their daughter is married.

Whether the ambassador composed a corrido for her is not on record. But why not?

AT NEW YORK's own City College heavy-set Dr. John Hastings is sometimes the senior class pick for "most brilliant professor."

Prof. Hastings adds point to his warning that Flying Fortresses will have no picnic planting their huge block-busters around Japan.

The weather there, says the professor, backing up the view of the chief of the United States weather bureau that weather is war's most important factor, will be on Tojo's side. Japan has lots of rain, lots of clouds on almost any day you may wish to pick.

The professor should know. He has charted rainfall and related items the world over. Climate is a favorite topic of his when he teaches economic, anthropological and all the other kinds of geography at City College.

Not long ago he made a climatic and topographical map for every one of the 48 states. For reasons of his own he held off the making of Montana's till last, a selective slight which has never been satisfactorily explained to that state's proud, and often gun-totin' citizens.

Professor Hastings has a deep grudge against Hitler. He says the latter's antics have cut off this country's normal supply of superior map paper. Grumbling, he takes what paper he can get and makes it serve better by using an ink mixed according to his own secret process.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Entire Pacific War Strategy Changed By Latest Allied Attacks in Solomons; RAF and U. S. Air Force Rock Europe With New Series of Non-Stop Bombings

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Troops in Maj. Gen. Sanderford Jarman's anti-aircraft artillery command receive alert warning of approaching planes in practice drill and are about to release barrage balloons. Besides forcing enemy planes to high altitudes thereby affecting bombing efficiency, barrage balloons' cables are strong enough to destroy any craft striking them.

MACARTHUR ATTACKS: Advance in Pacific

Under cover of bursting shells and strong aerial formations, American forces in the South Pacific strengthened their hold on the Solomon Islands and opened up another front against the Japanese in New Guinea.

Protected by big guns of the navy and a protective canopy thrown across the skies by fighter planes, U. S. troops scored a surprise landing on Rendova and New Georgia islands in the Solomons, and soon were shelling the big Jap air base on Munda.

To the west, American units swarmed ashore on the Huon Gulf of New Guinea, and soon were advancing toward the important Japanese position at Salamaua, already menaced by an Allied force which had hacked its way through the jungle to within 12 miles of the outpost.

Between these two theaters of operation, American forces occupied the Woodlark and Trobriand Islands without opposition.

More than 100 Japanese planes were shot down resisting the American landings. Our own losses were 17, along with a 7,000-ton transport and several other ships damaged in the dangerous reedy waters of the Solomons.

FOOD SUBSIDIES: Banned by Congress

The administration's plans for the use of subsidies to "roll back" retail food prices were strongly jolted by congressional action in passing the Commodity Credit Corporation bill outlawing such payment except as incentives to producers. As a result, the "rollback" recently instituted on meat and butter would be wiped out, with payments only being made on previous commitments.

In passing the bill, congress acted in opposition to administration support of the subsidy program. Prior to passage, the War Labor board came out for "rollbacks" to offset the increasing cost of living, which threaten its policy of limiting wage boosts to 15 per cent over January, 1941.

In passing the bill which extends the life of the CCC for two more years and adds 750 million dollars to its lending authority, congress permitted payment of 150 million dollars for subsidizing increased transportation costs and the production of critical minerals and food.

CHINA:

Press Japs Back

See-saw warfare in China continued, with Chinese forces recapturing a large section of Ochwihkow on the Yangtze river, thus driving the Japanese further out of the great rice bowl which they had threatened to overrun.

Assisting the Chinese in their successful counterattack was the American air force, which has been established in the southeast of China. Under leadership of Gen. Claire Chennault, the Yanks have been concentrating on Japanese locomotives, freight trains and other heavy equipment which the enemy finds most difficult to replace.

Japanese attacks near Shanghai and Swatow were also checked, with Chinese troops regaining several important points at Swatow, once famous treaty port on the Kwangtung coast.

EUROPE:

Clearing a Path

Europe rocked from all sides as British and American air squadrons continued pounding vital Axis industries, installations and air-dromes.

Nowhere did the Axis find rest. British bombers flew into Germany's Ruhr to strike at the already badly battered industrial centers, and even while the blockbusters and incendiaries plummeted roofward, the Nazis Munitions Minister Walter Speers complained that Axis workmen were compelled to labor in the open in many places.

In the Mediterranean American Flying Fortresses, accompanied by Lightning fighters, struck at airfields in Sicily, apparently striving to cripple bases from which Axis craft could oppose Allied landing expeditions.

Off to the east, American bombers began lambasting Axis air-dromes and installations in Greece, along the route an Allied army might take to invade the Balkans. In anticipating a major Allied drive in this direction, the Axis reported fortification of mountain passes along the whole rugged Grecian coast.

HOGS:

Flood Market

With principal markets flooded with heavy receipts, prices on hogs dropped and government and industry representatives appealed to farmers to restrict shipments.

Although the government had promised to support prices for 240 to 270 pound pigs at $13.75, hogs of this weight brought less as a result of the large receipts. It was explained packers lacked the labor to handle such huge supplies.

Prices for hogs over the 270 pound weight sagged as the government made no commitment to prop returns at the $13.75 mark. The action was seen as a move to induce farmers to market pigs at lighter weights to relieve the critical corn situation, which continued to plague processors and manufacturers, who said they would be compelled to seriously restrict operations unless further grain was forthcoming.

GAS:

Tight Pinch

Completion of the big oil pipe line in the Midwest and declining petroleum production in California might well spell a tightening of gasoline supplies in those sections within the near future, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes declared. At the same time, Ickes could see no relief in the gasoline situation in the East. In all cases, Ickes said, the services' huge consumption of petroleum is digging deeply into the nation's supply. Ickes cited Lieut. Gen. Somervell's estimate that military demands now approximate 1,000,000 barrels a day, exclusive of gasoline and lubricating products, while American refining capacity stands at 3,850,000 barrels.

Completion of the big pipe line in the Midwest, Ickes said, will free many tank cars for haulage of oil from the area east of the Mississippi. However, Ickes pointed out, it is this area which is suffering from a decline in production, and further diversion of its supplies necessarily will result in a further pinch in civilian consumption there.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

RICKENBACKER: Capt. Edward Rickenbacker visited the Russian front while on an official mission to Moscow for the secretary of war.

MILK: Synthetic milk, made of vegetable oils, was pronounced an unsatisfactory substitute by the two government experts. The artificial product failed to stimulate growth and development properly in feeding tests.

CORNSTARCH: Corn refineries are facing shutdowns because of insufficient supply of corn, executives of the industry warn. Only about 5 million bushels are believed to be available to processors for the year.

SERVICE: A law making almost all adult men and women subject to wartime service wherever needed, is being urged by Rep. Wadsworth of New York.

of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

MRS. ELI WHITAKER ENTERTAINS FOR LITTLE ANN TAYLOR
Last Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Eli Whitaker, assisted by Mrs. L. V. Pempec, entertained in the garden of her home on Fairfield Street. The party was in honor of lovely little Ann Taylor Collins, who was three years old on July 27th.

The hostess and Ann Taylor greeted the guests in the garden. After many lovely gifts had been opened and admired, Mrs. Pempec directed the game.

Ring around the Rosy, Drop the handkerchief, and Here we go Round the Mulberry Bush.

The table, set in the garden, was decorated in red, white and blue. Two American flags hung above the table. Three white cakes with red decoration and blue candles formed the centerpiece, around which the favors were grouped. These were suckers dressed like dolls in red, white and blue.

After Ann Taylor blew out the candles and cut the first slice of cake, the following guests enjoyed ice cream and cake: "Bessy" and "Sonny" Scott, Myrna and Pete Mistro, Sarile Deaton, Shirley May Whitaker, Jeffie Katherine Whitaker, "Buddy" Jensen, Margaret Jean Mitchell, Arline and Beatrice Pierce, Theresa Simmons, Ruth Elizabeth Neely, Jimmie Quinn, Jed Dennis, Cornelia and Charles Ferrell, Sandra Matthews, Mary Leigh Garner, and Marilyn Hopper.

Mrs. Lizzie Brown has returned to Grenada from Hot Springs.

Pfc. and Mrs. Leroy Hodges have returned to Waycross, Ga., after a 15 day furlough spent here with their sister, Mrs. Wardellerguson, who resides on Route 4, and with their father, Mr. Cleveland Hodges at Coffeeville.

Mrs. R. C. Christopher and little son, Tom, returned last week end from Tucson, Ariz., where they visited their father and husband, Cpl. R. C. Christopher, who is located at the Air Base at Tucson for two months.

Lt. and Mrs. Robert H. Norris, Jr. of Glasgow, Ky., visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Honeycutt the past week end, leaving Tuesday, Mrs. Norris is the former Mary Douglass Honeycutt.

Mrs. Sam Houston and baby daughter, of Birmingham, are guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brown.

Judge R. E. L. Johnson, of Memphis, was the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Earl Burkley and family, last week.

Miss Cloe Lufkin and Miss Robbie Sam Clanton spent Monday in Memphis.

Col. and Mrs. Paul Carter left Monday to enjoy a nine day vacation at Hot Springs, Ark.

Mrs. Sam Hall Garner and little daughter, Mary Leich, visited their sisters and aunts, Mesdames Cliff Davis, White and Miss Sal Leigh in Memphis recently.

Mr. and Mrs. M. N. McCracken were guests of their mother, Mrs. J. E. McCracken the past week end. Mr. McCracken received his discharge from the Marine Corps at his station at Ithaca, Md. last week and was en route to his home at Earle, Ark.

Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Robinson visited their relatives in Oxford last week.

Miss Carolyn Whitaker visited her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Whitaker in Memphis the past week end and while there attended the presentation of "Bitter Sweet" and "The Only Girl" at the MOAT.

LOCAL GIRL HONORED
Marguerite Stanley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Stanley, was elected secretary and treasury of the Freshman Class at Millsaps, Jackson, Miss., where she is attending college. She is a pledge to the Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority.

MRS. GENE MARDERS BOTELER ON SUNDAY AT THREE PROGRAM

Mrs. Gene Marders Boteler, recent graduate of Belhaven Conservatory was the featured artist at last week's "Sunday at Three" program at the USO club. Mrs. Boteler, accomplished pianist, presented a varied program of classical and modern compositions which were most favorably received by the audience of soldiers and civilians.

Mrs. Boteler's program included: Prelude No. 3 in E Flat Major-Mach; Prelude-Chopin; Symphonie Etude XII-Schumann; Andante-Finale-Donizetti from Lucia de Lammermoor; Etude-Chopin; Prelude-Gosens; Suite-Debussy; Good Morning; The Hurdy Gurdy; The Music Box.

For an encore Mrs. Boteler played a medley of popular compositions. These programs will continue each "Sunday at Three" with an individual artist featured each week. All members of the community as well as soldiers and their friends are invited to attend these programs.

GRANADA GIRLS IN JACKSON
Miss Carolyn Estes visited her relatives, the Stephens family in Jackson this and last week, and Miss Helen Dubard is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. W. Lipscomb and family.

USO NOTES
One of the most popular programs at the USO is the recently inaugurated Sunday evening motion picture presentation.

The lawn behind the USO club house is the scene of the outdoor showing of full-length features at 8:45 each Sunday evening.

Miss Addie Barrow left Wednesday morning for Nashville, Tenn., and Franklin, Ky., where she will visit homefolk. She was accompanied on this trip by Mrs. Newton, who will join her husband in Nashville. Sgt. Newton having been transferred from Camp McCain, there. Mr. Phil Poovey returned Friday from Morgantown, S. C. where he visited his mother.

Mr. Lon Thomas returned home last Thursday from the Baptist Hospital in Memphis and after a day or two at the Grenada Hospital, he went to the home of his daughter, who resides in Grenada, Mrs. Joe Woods. His daughter, Miss Opal Thomas, R. N., was with him in Memphis and accompanied him home. Another daughter, Mrs. E. P. Henderson, of Columbus, Miss., is visiting the family at her sister, Mrs. Woods' home here.

Mrs. Mollie McLeod enjoyed having her children with her last week. They have returned home. Those here included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burt, and Jean Scott, of Memphis, Mrs. Jim Pope and two children, Patricia and Jim, Jr., of Columbus, Miss.

Miss Isabel Bailey will leave Sunday for Chicago to visit her brother, Cliff Bailey, Jr., for a week.

Dr. and Mrs. C. K. Bailey will leave Friday for a week's visit in New Orleans.

ORKIN-STACKLER
A lovely morning wedding on August 1st at ten o'clock, occurred when Miss Beatrice Stackler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stackler, of New York City, became the bride of st. Lieutenant Judah Orkin, of Camp McCain and New York City, at the Chapel at Camp McCain with Rabbi Doppelt, Post Chaplain, officiating.

A sister of the groom, Miss Harriett Orkin attended the bride as maid of honor and in attendance were the parents of both bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Orkin and Mr. and Mrs. Stackler and their daughter, Miss Lillian Stackler.

Nuptial music was presented by Pvt. Howowitz and Mr. John Karpeles, Jewish USO director, extended many courtesies to those present.

The lovely young bride was fashionably attired for her wedding and her charming tea rose bouquet was placed on a small white Bible.

The groom is one of the dentists at Camp McCain.

The young couple plan to reside in Calhoun City.

They left immediately after the ceremony for their honeymoon of several days.

MISS ROSEMARY BOX HONORED
Miss Rosemary Box was honored Thursday evening with a birthday party at the Box residence, where she was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Mrs. Eugene Richard Prouditt made the evening more enjoyable with the lovely music she rendered at the piano. Johnny Box rendered a solo which was accepted with great applause. Billy Cottingham and Johnny Box were the only boys present and had quite a task on hand in seeing all the girls home, but they true to form had the situation well in hand.

Assisting with refreshments were Sgt. A. J. Crepeau and his lovely wife, Mrs. May Crepeau, who are visiting with the Box family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Edwards and daughter, Mrs. David Horn, Jr., of Wate Valley, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Horn and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mohand, of Carrollton, were guests of their mother, Mrs. Claud Hall.

Miss Nancy Nelson Gauberry is in Birmingham attending lectures on bacteriology. She will be away two weeks.

Personally I will be glad when all of this political business is over on August 24th. Too damn much work.

The old lady and the spotted child went to Memphis with the Salters Saturday, the latter remaining over a day or so.

Pvt. Byron Hunter of Camp Shelby enjoyed a week end pass with his wife and family.

HORTON THANKS PEOPLE

I wish to thank the people of Beat 3 for the vote which permits me and a most worthy opponent, Mr. Hubert Clark, to enter the run-off.

I sincerely solicit the vote and influence of those who supported Messrs. Williams and Hendricks and assure them that, if elected, I shall use the mistakes made in the past as warning signs not to repeat them.

Sincerely,
W. V. HORTON.

The losers have found out, as I predicted, that there are all kinds of Hars, including dastard Hars, in Grenada County.

VOLLIE SAYS!

I was poking around in the back store room looking for a lost nickel and found 25 kegs of nails, 2 kegs of staples, 10 cans 48 lbs. Swift's Jewel Shortening, 25 cans 48 lb. Pure Lard, 50 sacks shorts, 15 sacks 100 lb. Hen Scratch, twenty-five boxes California Oranges, ten boxes Sunkist Lemons, ten bushels of Fancy Peaches, 15 bushels Home Grown Tomatoes, 15 bushels Morgan's Ginger Ale, five cases Paper Napkins, several cases Paper Towels, twenty cases Salad Dressing and the produce trucks were bringing in several crates of fresh Lettuce, Celery, English Peas, Green Beans, Plums, Red Potatoes, White Potatoes and Dry Onions—So I thought—

WHAT A SALE

For the week end with all of this good merchandise plus the hundreds of other items such as Vanilla Wafers, Potato Chips, Vinegar, Crackers, Olives, Peanut Butter, Bread, Cakes, Mustard, Fresh Frozen Peeled Shrimp, Fresh Frozen Full Dressed Fryers and lots of others.

Money Makes The Mare Go Round

Come in and swap me some money for this merchandise because I like to hear it rattle even though I can't keep it, but it does the money good to keep it rolling and not let it get rusty by hoarding it.

We're In The Clover Now

We should be so happy and thankful but I reckon we're just naturally leading too fast a life. My father told me that right after the Civil War they only had flour bread on Sunday and he only got one pair of shoes each year and got them at Christmas. He said he would go out bare footed on cold, frosty mornings to feed the stock and his feet would get so cold he'd run the hogs up and stand in their warm bed to get his feet warm. Oh! Yes, let's be hadpy and stay in the clover by buying more War Bonds and Stamps.

As We Slept

As most of Grenada slept early last Sunday morning, a bunch of colored soldiers would have "taken" West Ward in the vicinity of 7-51 had it not been for the guts and valor of a couple of the members of the city law—Policemen Davis and Lott—and two members of the M. P. force. One negro soldier was severely cracked over the head by Mr. Davis when he resisted arrest. The mob of colored soldiers on the West side of 51 were held at bay and finally sent back to camp by Davis, a lanky MP from Kentucky and Lott who stood by with an automatic shotgun guarding the flanks.

Had these three or four officers given back one inch, there is no doubt that hell would have been to pay down in that area. There is no telling when trouble will arise again.

In my opinion these colored troops have been indoctrinated by their commander with false philosophy of the South. If I am right, the sooner the commanders who indoctrinated their troops falsely are gotten rid of, the better conditions will be here.

It is a false theory that the civil authorities have no control of soldiers who are in the former's jurisdiction. Grenada's policemen are supreme in the corporate limits of Grenada.

Before some of our officers or some of the colored soldiers are killed, it might be best to place Grenada off limits for colored troops as has been done in the cases of Duck Hill and Winona. It would be best to rid Camp McCain of indoctrinated negro soldiers with false hopes and false aspirations.

Holding My Fire

We have a new man in charge of the USO work in Grenada. I want to give him a chance. Frankly, I was on the point of telling our people how well the USO functioned (with electric sewing machine and washing facilities for the soldiers' wives) at an air base in Florida; and about what wonderful facilities a mother of Grenada found near the camp in Texas where her son was stationed. I was on the point again of pointing out what a damnable failure the USO work had been in Grenada, where one little dinky building is supposed to provide town entertainment for about 50,000 soldiers; and how the USO is paying monthly rent on an unopened building (the furniture for which is already here).

But, in justice, I want to give the new man a chance to prove that he is able to untangle the sorry mess which is the Grenada USO. If he does not do something, and quickly, he is going to hear from me in no misundenstandable words.

In the meantime, I wish him well, for the soldiers, not us civilians, suffer from the maladministration of the local USO.

Faithful Carrier Dead

The older and permanent residents of Grenada will bear with regret the death of Lowe Brown, colored mail carrier on Carrier Route 1—the first one established in Grenada. Lowe enjoyed the respect and esteem of the postal authorities, of the white people and of members of his own race, and has been a powerful influence keeping amicable the relationship between the two races which Fate has destined to live side by side.

Lowe Brown faithfully served the people of Grenada for over thirty years. Maybe longer. Certainly I can barely remember the time when Brown did not stop at our home with messages of gladness, messages of sorrow and messages from the war fronts. My wife just reminded me that at one delivery during the first World War, Lowe Brown made a special trip to deliver her 63 pieces of mail from me.

The world, and Grenada in particular is better for having colored men like Lowe Brown. May he rest in peace.

THROUGH A WOMAN'S EYE

By Mrs. W. W. Whitaker

USO DIRECTOR HERE

There's a new Y. M. C. A. director at the USO these days, none other than Mr. McDaniel, of Clinton, Miss. Mr. McDaniel has been in Jackson the first part of this week attending to business affairs and we have not had the opportunity of interviewing him. We do know tho, that he is a man of most pleasant personality, with a splendid back ground as a school man, and that he is most earnest in his desire to help Grenadians with their problem of entertaining the soldiers who come to Grenada from the Camp and the Air Base. Let's all get together now and do our best. After all it's the soldier who is neglected if we squabble over who is to be "boss." Surely we can see that at least in one thing our common enemy was right when he said "divide and conquer." Our USO program suffered because we were so miserably divided over leadership here in Grenada. We have hundreds of Grenada ladies both young and not so young, who are anxious to do volunteer USO work, and the soldiers are most grateful to those citizens who welcome them when they come to Grenada.

COTTON SEED

An increase of $7.00 per ton in selling price of cottonseed from $49.00 to $56.00 at the gin, was announced Sunday, by three Southern Senators, one of them being our junior Mississippi Senator, Jim Eastland. This ceiling price was set for cottonseed of 41 percent protein content of the valuable cottonseed meal product.

The Mississippi farmer will profit a little this year from his seed money, that is, if his family is able to pick the cotton and he is spared the unpleasant experience of paying out all he gains in boosted seed price. THIS IS A GOOD YEAR OR THE FAMILY TO REALLY WORK.

We notice where a famous Swedish psychiatrist has been summoned to Germany, presumably to observe whether Hitler is crazy. Of course his observation will be made public only if it coincides with the already fixed belief or plan.

Many, no doubt, are interested in our son, Whyte, Jr. He is still in the Station Hospital at Camp McCain but hopes to be back on duty in Camp Hood within another four weeks.

This Victory Is Just In The Beginning

Do not let the events of the past few months when our forces made advances make you believe that victory is at hand, or any way like near at hand.

The tremendous territory in Northeast Africa was taken with bags of gold dispensed with liberal hands. Of course, Tunis and Bizerta were different stories. The invasion of Sicily, according to the Washington Merry-Go-Round, was preceded by our own brand of fifth columnists with bags of gold.

We have not got up against the real thing yet by any means. So far only the Germans—that is, in the European theatre—have made desperate resistance. The Italians always have been easy prey, for their hearts seem no longer to be in the war. There is imminent danger right today that the Germans will actually take all of Italy North of Po River under their control, and leave the non-industrial areas South of the Po to go defended or surrendered by the Italians. Threats and attempts to seize the Italian Navy by the Germans have been made.

In the long route to Berlin, we have many, many miles of tough going. Blood by the millions of gallons will be spent in the drive.

No, this war is not over yet. It is just beginning. So far our diplomats have used more gold than blood (and more power to them) but the price of complete victory must be blood, not gold.

Senator Eastland Given Credit For Boost In Cottonseed Price

Senator Jim Eastland keeps another of his campaign pledges, wins another of the fights he promised Mississippi farmers he would wage in their behalf.

The ceiling price on cottonseed in Mississippi was boosted last Saturday to $56 per ton.

That is a $7 increase over last year's price of $49. On a ten-million-bale crop it means $35,000,000 to cotton growers.

The new ceiling price, exceeding last year's by $7 per ton, is as high as the price obtained at any point in Mississippi during 1947 when Jim Eastland, then serving temporarily as Senator by appointment, fought for and won higher prices for cottonseed.

During his campaign last year for election to a full term in the Senate, Jim Eastland promised that if elected he would make every effort to have the ceiling price on cottonseed as high as he helped raise it in 1947.

Announcement that the 1947 ceiling price has been raised to $56 reveals that he has kept his promise.

Three Senators, Eastland, Bankhead and McClellan, waged this fight for the increased price of cottonseed. Jim Eastland, working at home in Ruessville, prepared the brief which these three Senators filed in support of their demands that the price be raised to $57, and C. C. Smith, of the Commodity Credit Corporation, is authority for the statement that this brief was the best and most effective analysis and summary of the problem that had been presented. He said further that this brief was very largely responsible for the price increase granted.

Mississippians who elected Jim Eastland to the Senate thus are reminded again that they made no mistake. He is "delivering the goods." He is working and fighting ably, intelligently, and successfully to defend their interests and to obtain for them their just dues.—Clarion-Ledger.

AAA Workers Ordered to Stick To Business

The big headline, "200,000 AAA Workers Ordered to Stick to Business", appeared in the Commercial Appeal on Wednesday, July 21, 1948.

Several questions arise from this article:

1. Why, in a world crying for food, and in a world where severe rationing of food is being practiced, should there be ANY AAA workers?

2. If these workers have been ordered to "stick to business strictly", what have they been doing in the past?

Well, the instructions explain inferentially what they have been doing, by placing specific bans on several activities: first, frunkling any kind of publicity, pictures, scrip, films or anything like that to the public; second, and I quote, "By word of mouth, in individual contacts or before groups carry promotional activities for the purpose of enhancing the prestige of the AAA as an institution, or of indoctrinating a philosophy relating to the general principles of the AAA programs, or of building pressure for or against congressional action on agricultural measures."

The sooner the AAA is grubbed out by the roots, the better the country will be.

MR. THOMASON THANKS VOTERS

Mr. R. B. (Dink) Thomason, who was defeated for the office of Chancery Clerk in the election Tuesday asked the GCW to say for him that he was very appreciative of the votes he received, especially the votes in the precincts in District Four (his home district); that he has no ill feelings toward anyone and that he wishes for his successful opponent a good administration.

Sgt. Juel Batson, of the Air Corps at Del Rio, Texas, is spending the week with homefol here.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your doctor!

DOAN'S PILLS

In The News

By Congressman Thos. G. Abernethy Fourth Mississippi District N. Y. A. PROPERTY

Director of Procurement, Clifton M. Mack, announced on July 13th that action on the disposition of N. Y. A. property, recently declared surplus by Congress, would begin immediately upon receipt from N. Y. A. of an inventory of personal property, supplies and equipment held by that agency.

It was pointed out that the law gives first choice to non-federal vocational education authorities using the property on June 30th, 1943; and that they may have free use of such property for the present war and not more than six months thereafter. Property not so disposed of will then be available to federal agencies, such as War and Navy Departments and the Maritime Commission. Following that, other non-federal vocational education authorities may apply to the United States Commissioner of Education within ninety days of Presidential approval of the bill, for remaining property. If the property is to be used for vocational training, the Procurement Division will effect transfer on a loan basis, without compensation.

The residue of the property will then be available for sale to non-federal public agencies and to the general public. Applications pertaining to real property should be addressed to the Commissioner of Public Buildings, and applications for personal property should be made to the Procurement Division, Washington, D. C. or to the nearest Procurement Division regional office.

RE-EMPLOYMENT OF DISCHARGED SERVICE MEN

Federal agencies were notified by the Civil Service Commission that former employees, discharged from the armed forces, must be restored to comparable jobs. Even temporary employees may return to temporary jobs if they exist.

Already many over-age and disabled soldiers and sailors have been returned to civilian life. And ambitious places both in and out of Government circles, are being made to place discharged veterans in jobs after the war.

The Selective Service Act entitles a man to return to his prewar job after he has left the service. Thousands of men discharged from the service have registered with the United States Employment Service and the majority of them have been placed quickly. Those wanting their old jobs back can enlist the help of local Selective Service boards if their former employers refuse to take them. A local re-employment committee will then remind the employer of his duty under the law.

Oh, me.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the people for the vote which I received in my race for sheriff. Although I did not receive enough votes to put me in the run-off, I wish to state most definitely that I have no malice in my heart for anyone who voted otherwise. It has been most refreshing to have mixed and mingled with the people of the county, and it has done me a lot of good. I yield gracefully to the wishes of the people.

Sincerely,
L. C. HOWARD.

Aint they sweet.

Do not be too optimistic about the minor successes our arms have experienced. We have barely STARTED on the long road back.

ALMOST as much a part of most Southern villages as the Court House, itself, is the bulk storage plant at the edge of town bearing the old familiar sign: STANDARD OIL COMPANY. Wherever people congregate and work and live, there you will find the tanks, the office and the yard of an Agent of this Company.

The Agent is a part of the community. He is neighbor, friend and fellow-townsmen. And to the community HE is the Standard Oil Company.

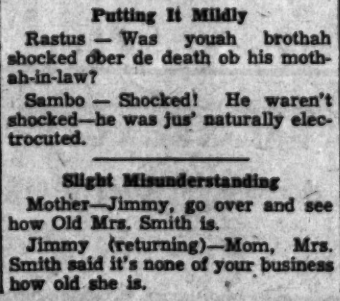

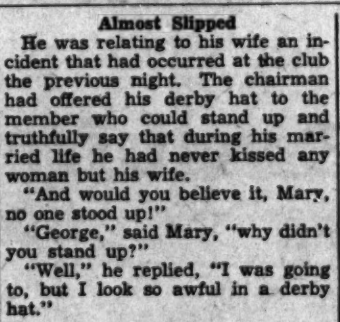

He lives "on the ground." His feet are on the ground. And that may explain how it is that Standard Oil can and does keep so close to the interests of every locality it serves. Our aims and actions are deep-rooted in the very soil of every Southern County.

Barbecued Beef on Buns Tastes Good (See Recipe Below)

Fun Outdoors

Your family will like eating outdoors for nothing seems so good as beef barbecues or hamburgers served in the open when appetites are their sharpest, or coffee made on a make-shift stove from a couple of large bricks maneuvered to hold the old granite coffee pot in place. Food is good and wholesome, and there's plenty of it whether you cook it at home and wrap it up to take with you to the spot of your choice, or if you gather twigs and cook to order. Make use of the back yard for your barbecue, or take to the woods or lake, even if you have to use the bicycle. The change from eating on the dining room table will be a welcome change and will do wonders toward perking up summer appetites.

Make outdoor eating as convenient as dining at home. Be sure to include such things as salt and pepper, napkins, plenty of cups, plates and silverware in your basket to make the family comfortable. A spicy sauce with beef or veal makes up a delicious barbecue. The pound and a quarter of meat is enough for 12 buns—just in case you're interested in stretching those precious red points:

Barbecued Beef on Buns.
1 1/2 pounds beef or veal
1 cup thinly sliced onions
1 clove garlic, chopped (optional)
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 cup catsup
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Cut meat in 1-inch cubes and brown in hot fat. Add 1 cup water and simmer 1 1/2 hours until tender. Brown onions and garlic in hot fat and add to cooked meat with remainder of ingredients. Make on outdoor stove or wrap carefully in container with plenty of towels to keep warm, and take to barbecue. To serve, spoon on to warmed buns. Hamburgers are still a great favorite for outdoor eating, particularly now since hamburger still has fairly low point value. This recipe makes tasty and tender, well seasoned hamburgers:

Prize Hamburgers
(Makes 24 hamburgers)
4 pounds hamburger
1/4 cup chili sauce
1 cup Worcestershire sauce
1 1/2 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon onion salt
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
24 buns, toasted and buttered
Mix hamburger well with sauce and seasonings. Form into 24 patties.

Beef Barbecue on Toasted Bun ties and fry slowly in hot fat until browned and done, on both sides. When nearly done invert the bottom half of a bun over the hamburger so that bun will be steamed and toasted. The other half may be toasting on a stick while one rests on hamburger. Place other half on hamburger when ready to eat.

Many families are fond of barbecued spareribs on their jaunts outdoors. You'll like this one, particularly the sauce:

Barbecued Spareribs.
(Serves 4)
3 to 4 pounds ribs, cut in pieces
1 onion
1 large onion
1 cup catsup
1/4 cup Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 dashes tabasco sauce
2 cups water
Place ribs in shallow roasting pan, meaty side up. On each piece place an unpeeled slice of lemon, a thin slice of onion. Roast in hot oven (450 degrees), 30 minutes. Combine remaining ingredients, bring to a boil and pour over ribs. Continue baking in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes. Baste ribs several times with sauce.

Let the green salad for the outdoor supper be as green and sprightly as you can make it. A smart idea in making the salad is to toss all the greens together, but add the salad dressing only just before eating to allow the salad to keep its crispness:

Chef's Favorite Salad.
1/4 head of lettuce
2 cups spinach leaves
2 tomatoes, cut in wedges
1/4 cup sliced radishes
1 green pepper, cut in rings
3 green onions
1 stalk celery, cut in pieces
1/4 cup french dressing
Break lettuce into bite-sized pieces and toss together with other vegetables. Just before serving, add dressing and serve from large bowl. Have all ingredients well chilled.

If you have a host of hearty eaters and would enjoy a luscious pie, the combination of strawberries with rhubarb is a happy choice: Strawberry-Rhubarb Pie.
1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
1/4 cup orange juice
3 cups cut rhubarb
1 recipe pastry
1 cup sliced strawberries
1 tablespoon butter
Combine sugar, salt, nutmeg, tapioca, orange juice and rhubarb; place in 9-inch pie pan lined with pastry. Top with strawberries and dot with butter. Arrange whole pastry top or lattice covering. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees) for 10 minutes, then in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes.

On the other hand, fresh fruits by themselves or with a few cookies may be more to your liking. Be sure to wash them carefully, so they do not bruise, wrap them in waxed paper, and toss them into the red-checked tablecloth that you're fastening together at the corners.

Your Bedside Tables From Orange Crates

THESE orange crate bedside tables are useful and easy to make; they are very decorative, too, when fitted out as illustrated. These were lined with green oil cloth cut, fitted and pasted, as shown. The full skirt pieces were tacked to the top of the sides and lapped a few inches around the back. A top cover with a 3-inch frill was then added. The bedspread is trimmed with 5-inch frills of the muslin and 1-inch straight bands over seams and for the monograms.

NOTE—These bedside tables are from BOOK 1 which also contain 21 other thrifty home making ideas. BOOK 2 contains a complete alphabet for making monograms similar to the one illustrated. Books are 15 cents each. Send your order to:

GOD ENCOURAGES MOSES

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 3:1-16; 4:10-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Certainly I will be with thee.—Exodus 3:12.

Encouragement is something much needed, and not too often given. The word means to put some new thing into the heart of another, that is, to hearten and assure him, especially in the bearing of a heavy responsibility.

Moses, in all probability the world's greatest military and national leader, was about to lead his people out from under the mighty hand of Pharaoh. His final preparation for that epochal deed and all the years to follow was a personal meeting with God.

Possibly it was the mistake Moses had made and which caused him to be sent into the back of the desert, that now caused him to move with—

I. Understandable Caution (Exod. 3:13).

There is something remarkably fine about real humility. It commends itself to our thinking as the proper attitude of a mortal being, particularly in the face of spiritual responsibility.

Neither God nor man dares entrust a high and difficult commission to a foolish man who brusquely "rushes in where angels fear to tread." The fact that one feels fully and unhesitatingly qualified to take over such a responsibility is almost a certain indication that he is not the man to assume it.

Moses' request for God's backing must have been acceptable to Him, for He gave Moses—

II. Unlimited Authority (3:14-16).

Moses went as God's messenger. He was authorized to put all the majesty and power of the Infinite One behind his words and acts.

The ambassador must have credentials. God's representative has them. When "they shall say"—what an important and difficult situation that creates. The one who speaks for God must expect not only the scornful bitterness of God's enemies, but also the unbelieving questions of those whom he seeks to serve.

"What shall I say?" asks Moses, and God answers that he may say that "I AM" had sent him. This name of God reveals Him as the eternal, independent, self-sufficient, self-existent, immutable, personal Being. Consider, Christian brethren, whose we are and whom we serve.

But Moses seems to have been unable to see beyond his own human infirmity even in the light of such a glorious revelation, supplemented as it was by miraculous powers, and we find him showing an—

III. Unjustified Humility (4:10-13).

Perhaps we should not call this humility at all, for in one so divinely called and encouraged it was an act of unbelief and almost impotence.

When God calls a man He knows his limitations. Why then should one plead them as an excuse for not serving? The excuse of Moses that he was not a fluent speaker has been the standby of unwilling workers all through the ages. When asked to lead a prayer meeting, teach a Sunday school class, conduct a young people's meeting, thousands upon thousands have lamely thus excused themselves and missed a blessing.

The perfect answer of God (v. 11) merits attention. God made your mouth and mine. He gives us the power of speech. He asks not the eloquence of polished rhetorical phrases, or the flights of man's imagination. He wants but the incomparable eloquence of His own words on our lips.

No man should think too highly of himself, but let him beware lest he think too lowly about God. We are not sufficient for the opportunity. But God is more than sufficient.

Having called Moses, God saw to it that Moses went on with His work, even though now He had to call in Moses' older brother to help him. It was, in fact, an—

IV. Unnecessary Substitution (4:14-17).

Loving and patient is our God, but, mark it well, there is a boundary line to that patience. Moses went too far in his needless humility, and really reflected on the ability of God. God promptly substituted Aaron as the spokesman.

Gracious was He in thus providing a helper for Moses. But one wonders what Moses missed of blessing and power because of his slowness of heart. To decline the labor and the responsibility of service for God means loss far greater than we may ever know.

God's dealings with Moses speak eloquently to us of His willingness to enable and use a man who lacked some of the gifts for leadership. Let none of us be like Moses and become involved in needless worry about our gifts, and forget God's purpose and enabling power. When God calls, our gifts are not the controlling factor; in fact, they are not a great factor at all. The question then becomes, Is God able? Let us trust and obey Him.

Life of Mower Can Be Prolonged

It Is Wise to Repair And Oil Machine Early

Mower breakdowns during hay harvesting are expensive in labor, time and farm crop losses, and new mowers are increasingly hard to get. But old mowers will give many years of good service if given proper care.

A frequent cause of poor work is misalignment of the cutter bar. With the mower tongue end raised 30 inches, stretch a cord tightly across the top center of the Pitman bar past the end of the cutter bar. The outer end of the cutter bar, as measured at the knife rivets, should be ahead of the string a fourth of an inch for every foot length of cutter bar. This setting is called the "lead" and is necessary to give alignment of the cutting parts in heavy grass. Some mowers provide an eccentric bushing adjustment at the cutter bar hinge pin; in others the worn hinge pins will have to be replaced.

Make sure that the knife sections register in the center of the guards at the extremes of the Pitman bar stroke. Failure in this causes pulled grass and heavy cutting. Incorrect Pitman length, hinge pin wear or improper lead are the cause for poor register.

The back of the knife is held by wearing plates while the knife clips reach over the bar and hold the front edge of the knife down against the guard or shear plates. When the wear plates or clips become greasy, the knife does not make close contact, thus causing heavy draft and uneven cutting. Wear plates can be moved ahead to take up the wear by loosening the guard bolts and driving the plate forward. Knife clips can be driven down with a hammer. Do this with the knife pulled back from under the clip and use the knife end as a measure of clip tightness. With all clips properly adjusted, the knife should slide back and forth by hand but there should be no play. Severe wear of the knife head ball joint will cause broken knives and shearing of the knife head rivets. A new knife head is usually necessary for correction.

Worn out guard or shear plates can be replaced without removing the guards. A guard anvil will be found extremely useful here. Discarding guards because of worn shear plates is a waste of precious metal.

For adjustments peculiar to a particular mower, see the mower instruction book.

Vaccinating Calves For Bang's Disease

"Many farmers have heard of the good results obtained from calfhood vaccination for Bang's disease, and immediately want to apply it to the older animals in their herds as well," states the report from the American Foundation for Animal Health. "This presents an entirely different problem. Sometimes older vaccinated animals do not 'clear up,' and later on when herds are tested it becomes difficult to distinguish them from natural reactors. The question of which animals should be vaccinated and when, are matters to be determined by a veterinarian."

"Calfhood vaccination has been a great aid in clearing up Bang's disease in individual herds, but our job today is to eradicate it completely. That is why we must pursue the cow-testing program on an area basis until all major farming sections have been cleared. More than 400 counties have already been certified, and this number will be greatly increased before the war is over. When Bang's disease has been finally wiped out it will mean many millions in additional profits to American farmers."

Will a Trial of the 'War Criminals' Be Aftermath of 'Unconditional Surrender'?

They Didn't 'Hang Kaiser'
In 1918, but Will Adolf
Be as Lucky?

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

"UNCONDITIONAL surrender" is the watchword of the Allies and, after that has been brought about, the Axis leaders who plunged the world into war will be placed upon trial for the crimes against humanity which they and their followers have committed.

Such is the promise of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill and it is not likely that there will be any objection to that program from Joseph Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Certainly if the people of Poland, France, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Denmark, Greece and Czechoslovakia have anything to say about it, Hitler, Mussolini, Hirohito and their fellow international gangsters will not escape punishment as did Kaiser Wilhelm a quarter of a century ago.

Back in 1917-18 "hang the kaiser" was a popular slogan in the Allied countries even after the German monarch had abdicated and found refuge in Holland. That slogan helped continue Prime Minister Lloyd George in power in the British elections of November, 1918, and that the promise in it might be made good was indicated by Article 227 of the Treaty of Versailles, which was signed a few months later. The article said:

The Allied and Associated Powers publicly arraign Wilhelm II of Hohenzollern, formerly German emperor, for supreme offenses against international morality and the sanctity of treaties. The Allied and Associated Powers will address a request to the government of the Netherlands for the surrender to them of the ex-emperor in order that he may be put on trial.

Accordingly it was proposed that a tribunal, consisting of five judges, one each from the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, should be organized to serve as a court of justice for the arch-criminal, and in January, 1920, a formal demand was made upon Holland for his surrender. But immediately the plan struck a snag. For the Dutch government announced that it was not a signatory to the Versailles treaty, therefore not bound by its terms and, moreover, its national honor forbade the surrender of the royal refugee.

Expressing the fear that the kaiser might flee from Holland, the Allied governments repeated their demand. But Queen Wilhelmina and her ministers announced that this fear was groundless since by royal decree the kaiser would be restricted to a certain section of Utrecht and forbidden to leave it. Warning the Dutch government that "the responsibility is now that of the Netherlands," the Allies left the matter there and so the Prussian war-lord retired to his wood-chopping at Doorn where he lived to see an Austrian house-painter revive his old dream of world-domination and German aggression plunge the world into another holocaust.

The kaiser, however, was not the Attempt to Kidnap Kaiser—a 'Fascinating Footnote to History'

An interesting aftermath of the "hang the kaiser" cry of World War I days was the daring attempt of eight American soldiers—all from Tennessee—to kidnap the kaiser in his refuge in Amerongen, Holland, and take him to Paris, there to turn him over to the Allied authorities.

Under the pretense of being on a "journalistic investigation," they gained admission to the castle of Count von Bentinck and asked for an interview with the "All Highest."

Von Hindenburg and Von Ludendorff—Their names headed the list of German "war criminals" of 1914-18.

only German leader whom the victorious Allies had marked for punishment. Another article in the Versailles treaty stipulated that "the German government recognizes the right of the Allied powers to bring before military tribunals persons accused of having committed acts in violation of the laws and customs of war . . . The German government shall hand over to the Allied powers all persons accused of such offenses."

A list of 900 names, which included almost all of the military and political leaders of Germany during the war, was prepared in accordance with this article. The publication of this list, which was headed by the names of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff, stirred up a violent protest among the people of Germany and the new rulers of that country pleaded with the Allies not to force them to hand over these war criminals, declaring that it would mean the overthrow of the government and the resultant chaos.

Farceful Trials.

In response to this plea, the Allied governments cut the list down to 45 persons and permitted the Germans to conduct the trials. The result was a foregone conclusion. The Germans stalled as long as possible on the matter and it was not until three years after the war ended that a court in Leipzig went through the motions of staging a trial. All of the war criminals were freed either because their "innocence" was proved, or because "their misdeeds were not covered by German law."

By this time the Allies were no longer allied and public sentiment among their peoples was largely indifferent to the idea of retribution. As a climax to the whole farceful affair, the outstanding "war criminal," Von Hindenburg, was elected president of the republic of Germany and the weakness of this hard-bitten old warrior as the head of a civil government paved the way for the rise of Adolf Schickelgruber. So the "war criminals" section of the Versailles treaty remained as the only dead letter in it until this same Schickelgruber made the others dead letter also by tearing up the whole treaty and hurling it in the faces of Germany's conquerors.

Will the "war criminals" of 1939 "get away with it" the same way that those of 1914 did? Will Schickelgruber emulate the kaiser and find sanctuary in some "neutral" country? The list of such possible havens is small indeed—Sweden, Switzerland, Portugal, Spain and Turkey—and it is doubtful if any of these would welcome the arch-criminal of all history. The present Fascist-minded government of Argentina might—if he could get across the Atlantic, either by U-boat or airplane. But that is a remote possibility, so it looks as though the Austrian house-painter has little chance of living to a ripe—if dishonored—old age in exile.

Perhaps, like Napoleon, he would exclaim "I prefer death." That was what the French dictator said when told that the British government was sending him to the barren rock of St. Helena. After his defeat at Waterloo, he surrendered to the captain of the British man-o-war, Bellerophon, and threw himself upon the mercy of the prince regent, who later became King George IV. Napoleon believed that he would be allowed to settle down in some comfortable little place in England and great was his dismay and indignation when he learned that his captors had other plans for him.

A Dictator in Exile.

It was then that he declared his preference for death and it is said that Lord Liverpool, the British prime minister, was quite willing to accommodate him, just as millions today would be glad to accommodate Adolf Schickelgruber if he expressed a preference for death to exile or imprisonment. However, delegates from Great Britain, Russia, Austria and Prussia who formed the "Convention of Paris" in 1815 to pass upon Napoleon's war guilt overruled the wish of the British prime minister and the exile to St. Helena was the result. On that cheerless little island in the South Atlantic, he spent the next six years as a military prisoner with the rank of a British general "out of employment." Under instructions from the British government, he was treated as Gen. Napoleon Bonaparte, not as the emperor of France—a fact that was particularly galling to the ego of a man who had dreamed of world conquest.

One of the horrors of civil war is the bitterness of feeling between citizens of the same country which frequently transcends the bitterness the people of one nation feel toward "foreigners" with whom they are at war. During the Revolution many patriots had a greater hatred for their former friends and neighbors, who were Loyalists, or Tories, than they had for the British soldiers or the Hessian mercenaries. Similarly, four years of war which began in 1861 engendered animosities that were to linger for generations.

If many Southerners hated "that ape in the White House," there were an equal large number of Northerners whose favorite song was a promise to "hang Jeff Davis to a sour apple tree."

For the North, which could admire the military genius of a Lee or a "Stonewall" Jackson, apparently could not concede that "archtraitor," Jefferson Davis, had a single admirable trait. So their wrath for all "rebels" was concentrated on the head of the president of the Confederacy.

After Lee's surrender Davis, with members of his cabinet, fled south and he was captured in Georgia. He was imprisoned in Fortress Monroe and subjected to unnecessary indignities through the influence of certain revengeful members of the radical wing of the Republican party who were determined to bring him to trial for his "war guilt." Finally, after two years, Davis was released, with Horace Greeley and other Northerners, who had been his bitterest enemies during the war, providing his bail bond. His health broken by his prison experience and the public outcry for revenge having died down, no further effort was made to prosecute him.

"THERE'S A STAR SPANGLED BANNER WAVING SOMEWHERE"

(The meaning of the song "There's a Star Spangled Banner Waving Somewhere," Dedicated to my uncle, Mr. John Carver and his son's wife, Mrs. Jesse Hale Carver.)

The Star Spangled Banner Waving Somewhere" is our own Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. The distant land so many miles away is Heaven. Uncle Sam's great Heroes that get to go there are boys in the service who trust in God and their country, and the writer of this song which is a crippled boy hopes he will go there when he dies. Being a crippled doesn't matter to him at all, he only wants to fight for God and his country. He wants to do a great deed in the sight of God and his country so as to be a hero of God.

He thinks what difference does it make having a twisted leg when God and his country needs him so bad in the army to help with this war. It must have hurt him mighty bad when the army turned him down on account of being crippled. If every boy in the army felt this way about the war this world would be a better place and there would be no war.
